

Except for her negroes the South knows comparatively little about the problem of conflicting races and religions and can therefore be excused for the outbursts of egotism which have greeted Henry Wallace in his pilgrimage of sedition and hate below the Mason and Dixon line.

I say that the South is excused for it you've never had to meet the situation before you can hardly be expected to handle it perfectly at the first try.

Everything Mr. Wallace is attempting to do in the South has long been familiar in Northern politics, at the lowest level. I know, because I grew up in the North and covered campaigns as a young reporter. One day in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., I, a Methodist, sat on the speaker's platform at the dedication of a Jewish synagogue and heard the late Dan Hart, mayor of Wilkes-Barre, harangue the Jews, saying Jews and Catholics ought to stick together and beat the Protestants, with me as a fellow reporter George Korman, a Jew, and George said "That guy Hart, he's supposed to be a Catholic but his own church excommunicated him."

North a generation ago there were millions of foreign-born Americans. Had you gone into a city and made a speech referring to "Bohunks," or had you made uncomplimentary remarks about how native-born citizens regarded the others, you would have been greeted with eggs and tomatoes. For you would have been behaving indecently as a public speaker.

That's how—and why—Henry Wallace has been greeted by the South.

Every speaker has the American right to be heard in a campaign.

But also, he is strictly liable for his conduct on the stump.

OK, Boss, plug it Out, But Watch Those Wild Swings
BY JAMES THRASHER

Thoughtless and extravagant remarks are so numerous and so traditional in a presidential election year that it would be pointless to dispute all of them, even if it were possible. Yet Sen. J. Howard McGrath, the Democratic national chairman, has made one of those remarks which so exceeds the ordinary heat of partisan politics that it seems worthy of special notice.

In a speech at a party rally in Rhode Island, Mr. McGrath was complaining about certain unnamed newspapers and radio commentators who are pouring "to your ears a most anti-Democratic philosophy." He further complained that the unidentified papers and broadcasters "make your President out to be an erroneous fellow and a lost man."

That's all fair political game. But then he said: "These $100,000-a-year commentators would not be allowed to exist under a truly democratic form of government."

If Mr. McGrath has not confused his super and lower ears, then that is a remarkable statement, for a man who holds the high office of United States senator.

One may wonder what his conception of a truly democratic form of government is. He must have found a basic, hitherto unopposed flaw in the Constitution which permits well-paid commentators to exist since the senator's quarrel is with the form of our government, not its administration.

Mr. McGrath is under the impression that under this so-called democratic form of government, make the people's elected president immune to criticism? Would he abolish editorials, commentaries and commentaries?

If memory serves, Senator McGrath's party has implied during four previous presidential campaigns that the opposition's candidate was erroneous, stupid, and totally unfit to occupy the White House.

This was frankly a most anti-Democratic philosophy. And the Republicans of course, said at least as much about the Democratic candidate.

In fact, we don't suppose there has been a campaign in the last hundred years in which each party did not claim that the other's candidate was an incompetent, or worse, who would lead the country to disaster in the dire event of his election. But these parties, while often distressing have not previously been regarded as proof that our country's government was undemocratic, or that the detractors should be muzzle.

We think of only one "truly democratic" type of government in which opposition commentators would not be allowed to exist, let alone make $100,000 a year. But one would have to give the word "democratic" the new definition now used exclusively in a war against spreading eastward from Berlin.

We know that Senator McGrath did not mean that kind of "democracy." And we are sure that many members of both major parties, or perhaps the senator himself, regrets that he ever made the statement in question. From now on it may be hoped that the campaign's inevitable wild swings and rabbit punches will at least be aimed against the democratic belt.

Police Seek 3 Who Stole $570 From Hope Store

Police are searching for three negro men today who are believed to have stolen a bank deposit totaling $570.30 from the Hope Store, owned by Lewis and McLean, Inc., shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday.

The cashier of the organization had started to the bank with the deposit when three negroes appeared. She placed the money on a desk and waited on one of the trio. When they left the store the money was gone. The deposit contained $200.30 in checks and $270 in cash. She shortly thereafter discovered the missing money and reported it to the police.

Presumed to be the same ones, entered the Singer Sewing Machine Co. and when they left two purses owned by employees were missing. One contained about $15 and another $2.

Police have questioned several suspects.

Contender for Stalin's Job Dies Suddenly

By R. H. SHACKFORD
London, Sept. 1.—(UP)—Radio Gen. Andrei A. Zhdanov, secretary of the Communist party central committee, died suddenly yesterday. He was 52 years old.

Zhdanov was one of the four top men in the Soviet hierarchy and a leading contender with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for the mantle of power worn by Generalissimo Josef Stalin.

Western experts agreed that Zhdanov's death has removed the Western powers' most bitter enemy in Russia and the one man above all others who is leading the drive for Soviet domination of the world.

The Moscow announcement said Zhdanov died yesterday afternoon after a serious illness. The length of his illness was not stated, although he was known to have been in poor health a month ago.

Competitive of five doctors testified he died of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and heart disease.

No other details of his death, or of his illness, were made known in number of broadcasts devoted to his life and his achievements for the Communist party.

Western observers believed that Zhdanov and Molotov headed rival political groups within the Politburo and that his death now has made Molotov the leading contender for Stalin's post.

Zhdanov was considered Russia's highest authority on ideology. He was known to be the chief in his party of the theory that the Bolshevik revolution of 1917 could not be considered a success until it had achieved world domination, thus eliminating possible counter-attacks from remaining capitalist groups.

The position of powerful influence in the Kremlin thus made him the leading enemy of the West in the Soviet hierarchy.

No one can predict whether his death will cause any change in Soviet foreign policy or Soviet policy toward the West. It is significant, however, that his death comes at a time when Russia has re-opened negotiations with the West after closing virtually every avenue of discussion for a year.

Western experts are convinced that the split between Zhdanov and Molotov had developed in the past year was more serious than the Soviets wanted to admit.

Observers generally believed that Molotov came to Paris in July last year prepared to consider the Marshall plan in a favorable light. He walked out and slammed the door after instructions from Moscow.

Then Zhdanov took over Soviet policy toward the European Recovery program and organized the nine-nation conference dedicated to the Marshall plan.

French Reds Press for Wage Hikes

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
Paris, Sept. 1.—(UP)—A new Communist labor demand for a 33 percent increase in wages, plus a 15 percent increase in the minimum wage, was announced today by the Communist Party of France.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor announced the demand for a 15 percent increase in the minimum wage, plus a 15 percent increase in the minimum wage, plus a 15 percent increase in the minimum wage.

The coordinating committee of the independent unions already has announced a minimum wage of 13,400 francs. The non-Communist workers' force also has drawn up demands, but details are not known.

Movie Actor Arrested on Dope Charge

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
Hollywood, Sept. 1.—(UP)—Screen Actor Robert Mitchum and three other Hollywood personalities were arrested on a narcotics charge early today when officers found a marijuana party in a blonde starlet's home.

Mitchum shrugged his shoulders and surrendered calmly when two policemen broke in and caught him smoking a marijuana cigarette.

With him were golden-haired film actress Lee Remick, dancer Vickie Evans, and Robin Ford, 31, a friend of Mitchum's.

Narcotics Policemen A. M. Barr and J. B. McKinnon crashed into Mitchum's luxurious Laurel Canyon home shortly after midnight.

They found Mitchum, Ford, and Miss Remick had lighted marijuana "reefers" in their hands.

He got rave notices three years ago in "The Story of G. I. Joe." It was the Ernie Pyle movie that boosted him from a tough talking cowboy hero to the higher bracket.

The bobby soxers discovered him in "The Luckiest" and "Crossfire." Barr said Mitchum dropped his cigarette on the floor and said: "I might as well admit it. Sure, I've been using the stuff since I was a kid."

Miss Remick was entertaining her friends in a clinging blue hostess robe, the investigators said. As they broke in the house, the 20 year old girl-about-town lit a cigarette, handed it to Mitchum, and then lit up another for herself.

Mitchum and Ford, who were lounging on a divan, dropped their lighted "reefers" on the floor. The officers scooped them up as evidence.

Lee Remick still had hers in her mouth, they said.

The pre-dawn raid in the center of movieland's swankiest hilltop mansions climaxed eight months' investigation of filmland narcotics by Los Angeles police and federal narcotics bureau.

Officers Barr and McKinnon said they were stationed outside Miss Remick's house when Mitchum and Ford drove up and went inside.

"We caught them watching Miss Remick for six months," they said, "and Mitchum for eight."

They reported that they picked up 15 marijuana cigarettes in Mitchum's home and another one in Ford's apartment in town.

Federal agents have cooperated with police in investigating Hollywood dope addicts for six months, although they were not present at today's raid.

The suspects were booked at Los Angeles central jail and bail was set at $10,000 each.

Barr said that when the officers identified themselves, Miss Remick said "I may as well give you the rest of this." She pulled three more cigarettes from the pocket of her slinky blue dress.

Miss Remick said she had been "using the stuff" for two years.

"I bought 12 sticks last week for $60 and have smoked three since," he quoted her.

Babies Generally Come in 3 Sizes—Wigglers, Crawlers, Wobblers—Says Non-Father

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Sept. 1.—Watching a naked child crawl out of the ocean is like seeing the world being born all over again.

I learned about babies from Michael, who loves life, belly laughs and the sun.

The surly was a wet cool wonderland to him. Unwatched, he would have scuttled right on down with the crabs on the sea floor where we've lived long ago.

A wave lapped at him, Michael's face split in a sunburst of glee. Four white pearls in a red cave of fat.

But trying to hold Michael's attention on land was another matter. It was necessary to invent a new game every day. After that it was old stuff.

One morning I had the giggles. Early morn brought gales of laughter from the baby. Early morn brought gales of laughter from the baby. Early morn brought gales of laughter from the baby.

Michael so far as I could tell, had only one real problem: Whether to stay a crawler or become a wobbler. That is, a baby able to explore the world on his feet instead of on his hands and knees.

So far he has postponed the decision.

Home Entered and Robbed Near Hope

Someone entered the home of Jim Wakefield, a mile south of Hot Springs, Arkansas, last night, and made off with two pairs of trousers, about $135 in cash, and a tire and wheel from a truck parked in the yard.

The robber or robbers gained entrance through a kitchen window. State and county police are investigating.

Local Victim of Polio Recovering

Jimmy Osburn, young son of Mrs. Ruby Osburn of near Hope, who was stricken with polio in July, is reported to be considerably improved and has been transferred to the children's convalescent home at Jacksonville from Little Rock.

Reports indicate he is not paralyzed and is suffering only from weak muscles and will recover. He is expected to be released to return home in about three weeks.

Military Rulers Again Meet; May End Blockade

By WALTER RUNDLE
Berlin, Sept. 1.—(UP)—The Big Four military governors of Germany met again today in their series of conferences which reliable reports said might result in ending the Soviet blockade of Berlin by Sunday.

The governors convened their second session to work out plans to implement agreements reached at the Kremlin conferences at 5:00 p. m. (11:00 a. m. EDT) after Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander, was a few moments late arriving at the Allied Control authority building.

About 500 Germans stood in Potsdamer street in front of the building to watch the governors arrive, but made no demonstration.

Gen. Pierre Koenig, French military governor, was the first to arrive. He was followed closely by Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British governor, and Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. commander. Sokolovsky arrived at 5:04 p. m., four minutes after the meeting had been scheduled to start.

Subordinates of the military governors had been working throughout the day in special committees to deal with technical problems of establishing the Soviet-backed Eastern mark as Berlin's only currency, and of lifting the Russian blockade which began 74 days ago.

Financial and transport advisers of the four military governors of Germany met this morning in the Allied Control Council building to break the Berlin stalemate that has existed since four-power rule ended last March.

Reliable reports said the transport committee discussed plans to lift the Berlin blockade, and the financial committee discussed plans to install the Russian mark as the sole legal currency for Berlin, subject to four-power control.

The four deputy military governors, responsible for the administration of Berlin, also conferred this morning. This appeared to indicate some solution on the division of Berlin may also be in the making.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay and the British, French and Russian military commanders are scheduled to meet again at 5 p. m. to follow up their initial meeting yesterday which set the committee consultations in motion.

"It was generally believed," the Big Four commanders would confer reports from their committees. Belief that the blockade would be lifted soon was borne out by reports that two huge Western Allied supply trains already are loaded and waiting at the border, ready to make the run to Berlin.

The Western zone newspapers began accepting Soviet marks in payment for their papers, indicating that some agreement was near on the currency question. The papers are the American licensed Tagesspiegel and the British licensed Telegraph.

The black market value of the Western mark, which has been three times that of the Eastern mark, began dropping toward parity with the Eastern mark.

Communist Leader Walter Ulbricht, on his way to Leipzig, said Communist leaders believed the Moscow-Berlin talks would be followed by conferences on a German peace treaty.

Railway officials have been alerted to re-open traffic on the Berlin-Helmstedt-Berlin line on Sept. 5, it was reported. Two freight trains of 45 cars each, standing by, loaded with food and

Advices Vets to Check Policies

Arkansas veterans were advised by Donald T. Stearns, Officer in Charge, Veterans Administration Office, 1010 Sixth Street, Springfield, Ark., to give their National Service Life Insurance policies periodic "three-way checks."

Stearns said that their NSLI policies will give them the most protection.

The "three-way check" should cover (1) beneficiaries, both principal and contingent; (2) manner in which proceeds are to be paid to beneficiaries; and (3) amount and type of NSLI in force.

According to Mr. Stearns, many veterans fail to name new beneficiaries when their names or when a designated beneficiary dies. If a veteran dies without naming a beneficiary, or if no designated beneficiary is alive at the time of death, proceeds of the insurance go into his estate and are subject to inheritance taxes. Final distribution of the proceeds may not be that which the veteran would have desired.

Then, too, changes in family status or family income often require a veteran to change the method of NSLI payment. He may elect to have his NSLI proceeds paid to his beneficiary in a lump sum, or in equal monthly installments ranging from $6 to $100 a month.

Mr. Stearns emphasized that the type and amount of NSLI covered by a veteran should be that which best fits his pocketbook and gives him the most coverage. NSLI policies include term, ordinary life, 20-payment life, 20-payment life, endowment, or 40-payment endowment, or 60-payment endowment, or 80-payment endowment, or 100-payment endowment, or 120-payment endowment, or 140-payment endowment, or 160-payment endowment, or 180-payment endowment, or 200-payment endowment, or 220-payment endowment, or 240-payment endowment, or 260-payment Wallace Off in Heuber's pockets. educational and living standards in the South. He accused reactionary forces who "put money and property first" of being behind the "little disturbances" in North Carolina.

He claimed that a major reason for high prices was "too much hatred in the world" and said the cold war "must end if we are going to reduce the cost of living."

The presidential candidate said money being sent by the administration to "Europe and China" should be used to "build more Tennessee Valley authorities."

He left here for Guntersville and Gadsden, Gadsden Mayor J. Herbert McWhorter had wired Wallace that "your presence is desired" and advised him that the city's segregation ordinances would be enforced.

Officials along the remainder of his route appeared to the citizenry to leave the eggs in the bus house.

At Decatur it happened that a truckload of tomatoes was near Wallace speaking stand, but had no significance. Tomato grower Benie Timberlake did a thriving business among housewives on their way to market who stopped to hear Wallace.

"I do not come south to preach disunity," he declared.

The third presidential candidate said Alabama's per capita income was only half that of New York. It would be to New York's benefit to have Alabama's income doubled, he added.

The Morgan county court house, between 1931 and 1932, was the scene of the Scottsboro rape trials.

Bringing his campaign into the deep south, Wallace faced an icy reception from municipal officials. Officials warned him they would strictly enforce segregation laws. Mississippi and Arkansas refused to permit the former vice president to speak from the steps of their state capitols.

Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas all promised state highway patrol escorts, although Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama said he didn't believe anyone in Alabama will physically harm Mr. Wallace.

North Carolina editors deplored the episode as a "blot on the name" of the state but they also said Wallace was entirely responsible because he "haunted" anti-segregation laws.

The Memphis Press Scimitar said that "issues cannot be settled with overripe eggs and tomatoes. It's not for the south to tarnish its reputation for hospitality by hurling henfruit."

The Atlanta Journal observed simply that "eggs must be a sight cheaper in North Carolina than they are in Georgia."

In addition to the cost of the eggs, however, there at Wallace yesterday cost three Chicago N. C. men $25 each and court costs $100. They were fined for disorderly conduct in police court.

Wallace had a state highway patrol escort through Alabama. The heart of the next Dixiecrat political movement which was started over their race issue.

Wallace is refusing to speak where segregation of whites and Negroes is enforced, as it is by either law or custom in virtually all public establishments and meeting places in the south.

Commenting on the possibility of Wallace running into trouble today, Palm Beach Post, a southern representative of the Progressive party, remarked cryptically that Alabama is a "very rugged state."

Wallace was not listed for a public appearance at Birmingham on his itinerary for the day. A radio broadcast over a statewide hookup had been arranged to originate there at 7 p.m.

In protest against southern segregation, Wallace has been staying out of hotels and restaurants. One of the two women secretaries accompanying him is a Negro. And because hotels at Durham and Winston-Salem, N. C., would not let her have a room, Wallace and the six white members of his staff on the trip spent two nights in homes of Progressive Party members.

Wallace stayed in Negro homes both nights.

Last night—as will be the next three—was spent on a chartered Pullman car which is outside the railroad's regulations as far as segregation goes.

Stars and Stripes Means Food

During the first year of the "Truman Doctrine" Aid to Greece program, $35,000,000 worth of food was shipped to hungry Greeks. Here, workmen unload another shipment to Athens. Among those dependent on American supplies are 1,000,000 indigents and 500,000 refugees.

Price Supports for Rice Are Announced

Washington, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Price supports for the 1948 rice crop of about $1.48 per bushel have been announced by the Agriculture Department.

The support price will average about $1.41 a bushel as compared to $1.69 for the 1947 crop.

The support price is based on an average of parity as of Aug. 1, 1947. Prices will be supported through producer loans and purchase agreements.

The department said that at the request of producer representatives, the rates would be computed on the basis of specified value factors and yields of head and broken rice of the respective classes and varieties as determined in respective production areas.

New Tropical Storm Being Watched

Miami, Fla., Sept. 1 — (AP) — A new tropical storm in the Caribbean is being watched, as an Atlantic hurricane swept harmlessly to sea off Nova Scotia today.

A disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico was removed as a possible threat.

The Caribbean storm was discovered yesterday some 1,500 miles from Miami as September — the "hurricane month" — was arriving.

"It doesn't look like there is much to it," said Chief Forecaster Grady Norton. "But these baby storms grow as they come along and it'll bear watching."

Prices Climb in Southern Cities

Washington, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Labor department figures indicated today that the cost of living since 1939 has generally gone up faster in large cities in the South than in the rest of the nation.

The statistics show that since August, 1939, the cost of living has increased slightly more than 70 per cent in the country's 34 largest cities.

In at least five of the 10 southern cities surveyed, living costs definitely have increased more than the national average for the nine-year period. These cities are Birmingham, Ala.; Savannah, Ga.; Memphis, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; and Jacksonville, Fla.

Exactly comparative statistics are not available for the other five cities. Houston, Tex.; Richmond, Va.; Mobile, Ala.; Atlanta, Ga.; and Norfolk, Va. — since the labor department does not survey all of the 34 cities every month.

But department economists said it would be safe to assume that living costs in at least Mobile and Norfolk have increased faster than the national average since 1939.

From August, 1939 to July, 1948, the department recorded a national jump of 70.2 per cent in the cost of living.

During the same period, living costs in Birmingham went up 79.7 per cent; Houston, 74.5 per cent; Richmond, 71.3 per cent; Savannah, 71.5 per cent.

Latest available figures show the cost of living increased 73.6 per cent in Birmingham between August, 1939 and last June, 31 per cent in Jacksonville, and 16 per cent in Mobile.

For the remaining three cities, latest figures cover the increase in living costs from August, 1939 to May, 1948. They are: Atlanta, up 74.2 per cent; New Orleans, 70 per cent; and Norfolk, 75.3 per cent.

The department has no figures showing living costs on a dollar-a-dollar basis for any of the 34 cities surveyed. Nor does it have a breakdown in living costs by states or regions.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a widow of 48, considered quite attractive, and have always been very popular with the opposite sex. For four months I have been keeping company with a widower of my age and he wants to marry me. He has had three wives already, the first 10 years older than he, the second 10 years younger, the third was 15 to his 45.

This man tells me he loves me very much, but his maids seem to be for very young girls. When there is a baby-sitter near he completely ignores me. He is well-off and could give me a good home, but when I see him gazing enraptured at a mere child and ignoring me, I don't know what to do — whether to marry him or not.

Answer: Not, would be my advice. Any man who has had three wives of assorted ages and has not been able to keep any one of them is definitely not of matrimonial timber. You would no more be able to live happily with him than have any of your predecessors.

Another thing that also puts him out of the matrimonial context is the maids he seems to have for young girls. Any old man who falls for a school girl gives unmistakable evidence of senility, for as long as his mind is working he is bound to know that he and a 15-year-old girl have nothing in common, and that to one of them would be a disgrace.

As for the fact that he has had three wives, that is a definite red flag. It is a sure sign that he is not of the right stuff for a lifetime partnership.

So, my dear Dorothy, I advise you to keep your eyes wide open and not let this man's promises blind you to his past mistakes.

Remember, a man who has had three wives is a man who has had three chances to get it right and has failed each time. It is a pretty good indication that he is not the man for you.

The Doctor Says:

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D. Written for NEA Service

One of the most common causes of an irregular heart beat is a condition called extra systole. This condition is quite frequent, and many people have it at one time or another during life. The heart will occasionally have extra beats which are frequently felt, although they are not painful.

The cause cannot always be discovered. Some people get rid of this condition by stopping smoking, others by leading a quieter life. It is not a serious disorder, unless it is associated with something else. A sensation of irregular beats, however, should not be neglected.

Another fairly common type of heart irregularity is paroxysmal tachycardia, in which the heart beats too fast at irregular intervals. Many people have this for years without apparent harm.

Some Are Serious
There are other types of irregular heart actions, some of which are serious. The nature of the heart irregularity can be discovered by physical examination, and by the use of an instrument called an electrocardiograph, which measures the electrical impulses through the heart.

Exact diagnosis allows the physician to select the proper treatment. Drugs are used in some cases. These must be used with care, however, as they can produce harmful results if the dose is not adjusted to the particular needs of the patient.

Whatever the cause of the irregular heart beat, the first step is to make an exact diagnosis, and the second to adjust the treatment of the kind and severity of the condition. No two patients are exactly alike in these respects, and consequently, the outlook for future health and well-being varies from person to person.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

QUESTION: What causes the heart to be enlarged? What is the best treatment for it?

Answer: The heart becomes enlarged when too much strain is put on it. This can be the result of certain kinds of heart disease or high blood pressure. The treatment depends on the exact cause. The heart is not likely to shrink much in size once it has become greatly enlarged.

BACK - TO - SCHOOL CLOTHES for BOYS

Dear Miss Dix: Why do so many mothers rear their older daughters so much more strictly than they do their younger ones? In nearly every family Mother rules the oldest daughter with a rod of iron. She never has any liberty. But when little sister grows up she is permitted to do as she pleases.

I know an ideal girl, an older daughter who is now in college. She has never had a boy friend because no one ever met with her mother's approval. She has never been allowed to have dates, or to go anywhere unless she was chaperoned up to her eyes. She hasn't been permitted even to go to the movies unless some of the family went along with her. She was never allowed to pick out her clothes or select her friends. Mother was right on the spot, deciding everything for her.

But now that the youngest daughter has reached the boy and girl stage, Mother thinks it is just equity for her to do all the things that she never permitted the oldest daughter to do. Why?

Answer: Perhaps one reason why mothers are so much stricter with their older than their younger children is because by the time the little baby-sister has come along Mother is so worn out, with rearing a family she hasn't the courage and the energy to continue the fight with youngsters who are determined to do as they please.

More Patience
And, perhaps, another reason is that age and experience have taught Mother wisdom. She can see how unimportant were so many restrictions she put upon her older children. It wasn't worth while to reduce Mamie to tears by refusing to let her use lipstick, or to make her feel like a martyr because she was not permitted to have a date when all the other girls were having them.

And, anyway, mothers just naturally thrust the rule of family government on their oldest daughters. They have to nurse Mama's babies, and get a job as soon as they get through high school to send brother to college. They never can think about marrying because they are needed at home.

It is a great mistake to be the oldest daughter. A smart girl should wait to be born until after Mother has worn out all of her theories about child-rearing and wants a little peace and rest herself.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a widow of 48, considered quite attractive, and have always been very popular with the opposite sex. For four months I have been keeping company with a widower of my age and he wants to marry me. He has had three wives already, the first 10 years older than he, the second 10 years younger, the third was 15 to his 45.

This man tells me he loves me very much, but his maids seem to be for very young girls. When there is a baby-sitter near he completely ignores me. He is well-off and could give me a good home, but when I see him gazing enraptured at a mere child and ignoring me, I don't know what to do — whether to marry him or not.

Answer: Not, would be my advice. Any man who has had three wives of assorted ages and has not been able to keep any one of them is definitely not of matrimonial timber. You would no more be able to live happily with him than have any of your predecessors.

Another thing that also puts him out of the matrimonial context is the maids he seems to have for young girls. Any old man who falls for a school girl gives unmistakable evidence of senility, for as long as his mind is working he is bound to know that he and a 15-year-old girl have nothing in common, and that to one of them would be a disgrace.

As for the fact that he has had three wives, that is a definite red flag. It is a sure sign that he is not of the right stuff for a lifetime partnership.

So, my dear Dorothy, I advise you to keep your eyes wide open and not let this man's promises blind you to his past mistakes.

Remember, a man who has had three wives is a man who has had three chances to get it right and has failed each time. It is a pretty good indication that he is not the man for you.
